Am I on the the win.mit.edu domain? How can I tell?

Am I on the the win.mit.edu domain? How can I tell?

To ascertain whether you are on the win.mit.edu domain:

Windows 10/11 See Also

Windows 10/11

1. At the Windows logon screen if you see "Sign in to: ATHENA.MIT.EDU", your computer is joined to the WIN domain. You may by confused by seeing ATHENA.MIT.EDU, but this appears because of cross-realm authentication.

2. Or you can logon as a local account and bring up the System Properties by right-clicking This PC from the Windows file explorer navigation pane or from the desktop. Or press the Windows key and Break key to bring up the System Properties. In the Domain field you should see WIN.MIT.EDU. System X ∨ ひ Search Control Panel م Control Panel Home View basic information about your computer Device Manager Remote settings Windows 10 Enterprise Windows 10 System protection © 2018 Microsoft Corporation. All rights reserved. Advanced system settings System Processor: Intel(R) Xeon(R) CPU E5-2697 v2 @ 2.70GHz 2.70 GHz Installed memory (RAM): 4.00 GB System type: 64-bit Operating System, x64-based processor Pen and Touch: No Pen or Touch Input is available for this Display Computer name, domain, and workgroup settings Change settings Computer name: WSUS-Test-Win10.mit.edu Full computer name: Computer description: WIN.MIT.EDU Domain: Windows activation Windows is activated Read the Microsoft Software License Terms Product ID: 00329-00000-00003-AA856 Change product key Security and Maintenance

See Also

• WIN.MIT.EDU Landing Page