Overview

Because the ability to collaborate on p-sets and projects is so essential to the MIT experience, IS&T will loan an Apple iPad bundle to any undergraduate student or graduate student working as a TA who does not already have one, or who wishes to upgrade relative to what they own, at no additional cost.

These will be available to all enrolled students, on or off-campus. Many faculty members will expect students to have these tools in hand for class collaboration, so we encourage everyone eligible to enroll in this program.

The loan is for one semester, and participants in the program must return the loaned equipment within four weeks of the conclusion of the term. For additional information, see the Terms and Conditions.

Key Features

- Apple Pencil enables natural note-taking.
- Full access to the iPadOS App Store.

Eligibility

- Undergraduates and graduate students working as TAs are eligible to request an iPad bundle (an iPad and an Apple Pencil). A cost object is not required.
- Faculty are eligible for an iPad bundle via a separate form that is available here.

How to Obtain

To request a loaner iPad bundle, visit Computing Equipment Loan Program.

How to Use

What can or can't I do with the iPad?

In addition to using apps provided by MIT, you can use your personal AppleID to log in and download apps from the App Store. For information on MIT-specific settings and features, see Student iPad Loaner Remote Management.

Jailbreaking

Use of unauthorized applications on these iPads with the intent to alter the software or firmware (i.e. "jailbreaking") is prohibited.

VPN

You can connect to MIT's Prisma VPN with the GlobalProtect client, available in Self Service or the App Store.

- For more information, see Install and Connect to the Prisma Access VPN on iOS.
