What type of Apple Developer Account do I need?

What type of Apple Developer Account do I need?

Apple has created several different kinds of iOS Developer Accounts to meet the varied needs of developers. Due to Apple restrictions, some of these accounts may not meet your needs or may have restrictions that limit availability of accounts per organization. You can review the different account types at the Apple website.

More Information

If your needs are not met or you would like additional information, please contact app-publish@mit.edu and we will work with you to see how we can best accomplish your goals.